Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Miss Carol Channing, former star of "Hello Dolly", arrived at 21, at the peak of the lunch-hour rush in her working clothes. The guardian of its portals looked, recognized, gasped—and barred her from the dining area.

Miss Channing's work clothes were white wool plus furs, a matching Norfolk jacket worn with black turtleneck sweater, black woolen socks and white buckskin golf shoes (without cleats). "My walking suit," she said.

The management of 21 enforces its ban on ladies in pants as rigidly as it does its regulation that gentlemen wear ties.

Miss Channing, however, is a woman of resource. She returned to her chauffeur-driven limousine and back she came in a pale tourmaline mink coat that covered her discreetly from ear lobes to knees. A headwaiter led her party to a corner table.

Miss Channing's curious costume was part of her current job: drumming up interest in her forthcoming ABC special, "Carol Channing and 101 men" next Wednesday night.

The special is the first of six in three years she is to do under her ABC contract, sandwiched in between film commitments and, if plans mature, another Broadway musical.

Carol had an overnight success 17 years ago on Broadway with "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." Her Dolly was a sell-out and she left the Broadway east to tour the country in the show. Next she did the film, "Thoroughly Modern Millie." She has not had a vacation in years.

"My idea of a vacation is a change of occupation—like going from 'Dolly' to 'Millie.' You can have more fun working with a new company than just going some place and sitting around."

HELEN HENNESSY'S BOUTIQUE

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Take a French mother who has had her own radio program and has been a lyric writer. Add a New England father who is a recording engineer and a brother who is a film producer with an Academy Award. Two Cannes Festival Awards and the Venice Festival Award tucked under his belt.

Mix well with a girl who has devoted considerable study to fine art and uses her knowledge of color and anatomy in her career as a fashion designer.

And from these widely diversified but all-creative ingredients you come up with Baba Baldwin.

Baba is considered one of the country's outstanding young designers. She has done the costumes for a number of Broadway shows and her road company fashion credits include "Music Man," "Carousel," "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," and "She Loves Me." An actress herself, she has appeared in some of these plays as well.

Among her off-stage clients society is well-represented — Mrs. C. V. Whitney, Wendy Vanderbilt, Lady Mary Rothmere, Mrs. Clifford Brokaw III to name a few.

Completely feminine, and I might add, with one of the loveliest and most expressive faces I have seen. Baba has found the secret to making any woman feel beautiful. It's a simple truth that designers of kooky clothes just don't see.

"I design clothes for the ple who gather there are a "Who's Who" roster. Yet the place itself is informal bedlam. Fabulous fabrics are casually draped over chairs and piled on tables. Three small dogs are always in evidence. People bump into each other as they move around chatting and looking. And tea is served every afternoon even if there isn't the smallest flat surface available on which to prop the cups. Cabbages and kings are discussed and no one rushes for a fitting until talk is exhausted.

Baba has much to say about fashion and her exquisite designs prove she knows where she speaks.

"I have never allowed anyone to have something of mine I don't feel is becoming to her. After all, she carries my signature around with her."

"Clients know that," she said. "So they never come in and say, 'I need something.' They say, 'Baba, what do I need?'"

Her clothes are elegant, yet young looking. And you feel like a subtle femme fatale when she dresses you. For she believes that a dress should never wear YOU.

"Some people drink," Baba said. "I buy fabric." And when you look around at the silks and laces spilling out all over the place, you'd better believe she's a fabric addict.

In her latest collection she showed a Korean group. Each year she does the costumes for the annual Korean School gala for the American-Korean Foundation. And for her own collection she adapted the character of Korean native clothes without having them look at all costumey.

"Korea has been influenced by so many countries," she said. "You can feel the influence of Japan, China, India." She used many Korean fabrics and the Korean ambassador was so impressed with her designs that he wanted to send them to Korea to show how the native dress could be updated without losing dignity.

Baba knows what every woman who wants to be well-dressed should recognize. "High fashion does not have to have the stamp of an era. Clothes should be FEMININE year after year."

She's right, too. It was never intended in the scheme of things that an onlooker should be hard put to tell the girls from the boys.

SECOND THOUGHTS ABOUT SECOND CHANCE

Dear Helen:

What does a girl do when she breaks up with a guy then later wishes she hadn't?

I went with Harry for a month and really liked him. Then my ex-boy friend, Dave, started calling again. As I was still not over him, I thought, "At last, he's decided he likes me best," and so I broke up with Harry.

Now—nobody! I discovered that my "ex" is still very ex. He only wanted to find out if I still cared enough about him to leave another boy. Then he walked off again.

I know that Harry is twice the guy Dave is, and I hate myself for hurting him. I guess he hates me too, as he turns his head whenever he sees me.

If I make the first move, what can it be?—STUPID

Dear Stupid:

Why not write Harry a letter and tell him the truth? Let him know you learned about phonies the hard way, and you don't expect him to take you back, but "Please, can't we be friends?"

Make the letter contrite enough, and I think you'll hear from him soon.—H.

Dear Helen:

I'm a freshman, and I haven't got much going for me. In fact, nobody knows I'm alive. I can stand in a crowd and be invisible. People talk right through me to somebody on the other side. It's not that I'm really bad looking, but no one looks.

Well, I have this wild crush on a senior, He's Student Body President and he goes with the most popular girl in school. I daydream about bumping into him in the hall and suddenly he sees the Real Me and from there on we go steady.

think it will ever happen?—INVISIBLE ME

Dear Me:

Can you climb Mt. Everest in "tennie-runners"?

Will Twiggy ever look like Sophia Loren? The odds on a shy freshman snagging the Student Body President are just about as great.

Daydream a bit, honey. It's good for you. But don't spend all your time at it. Work on an all-out smile, a special talent or "Trade-mark" which will get you noticed, a certain sparkle that breaks your "invisible" shield.

You may not win the SPB this season, but I've seen many a timid wallflower blossom into a real butterfly by her junior year.—H. P.S. A Y.W.C.A. Charm School course helps a lot, and so do the proper clothes and make-up. Concentrate on anything that builds your self-confidence, from good looks to good grades to good reports on that special talent you've developed. And volunteer—for committees, extra club work, whatever needs doing.

Who knows, you may not only date a student body president, but BE one, someday.

Let me know how things work out. I'm a nut for happy endings.—H.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The World Almanac reports that Chicago is not the windiest city in the nation in spite of its reputation. During the years 1931-1966 Midwest City, Okla. and Oklahoma City, Okla. each registered 138 miles per hour in mean annual wind velocity, highest among selected U.S. cities.

Things Just Slow Up in Wintertime

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Winter is the American monsoon. In Vietnam the rainy monsoon season slows the fighting. In America winter keeps politicians indoors and demonstrators off the streets.

The 1968 candidates and the issues themselves won't start to heat up until the warm weather is back. Even that may not be late enough for the issues. They may not become clearly fixed until late summer or the November elections.

This is why the uncertainties about what lies ahead make next year's campaigns and elections unusually fascinating because, if there is anything which now can be called the American mood, it can undergo startling changes.

Thus it makes little sense to begin predictions now—based on last Tuesday's elections—about the issues, the candidates, and their chances in the 1968 presidential and congressional elections.

On Tuesday, Negroes were elected mayors of Cleveland and Gary, Ind., and the Republicans made some scattered gains. That's hardly enough for prophecies about next year.

This country has had a long history of prejudices—against the Irish, Catholics, Jews and Negroes—most of which have greatly diminished or disappeared except for anti-Negro feelings.

There, as the elections in Cleveland and Gary showed, the prejudice is only beginning to diminish. But it hasn't diminished so much it can't surge back in full force if racial troubles, particularly violence against whites, get under way on a large scale.

For example: The big Negro riots of the past few years have occurred in warm weather. Almost certainly there will be more next year. They still have not been analyzed enough to understand them or remedied enough to prevent them.

So far they have not been aimed directly at whites. Negroes have concentrated their riots against conditions

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Hallmark Hall of Fame, which has captured more Emmies and added more distinction to television than any other series of programs, begins its 17th season Saturday night with an "opened-up" version of "A Bell for Adano."

The special is based on Paul Osbourne's 1944 Broadway play, which was based on John Hersey's novel. But the television program will not be limited to indoor sets.

"It has been opened up," explains star John Forsythe, using the trade expression employed in the transition of plays to the film medium.

"We shot some scenes down at the harbor, in the hills, all over. Television viewers demand this nowadays, especially with the advent of color and the popularity of movies on TV. You can no longer play a show like this one entirely in a studio."

"Otherwise the play is mostly intact. Roger Hirshon, who adapted it for television, also went back to the Hersey novel for added material, particularly the humor which wasn't as noticeable in the play version. We have used nothing from the movie, which starred John Hodiak and wasn't very successful."

Forsythe plays Major Joppola, the Italian-American officer who tries to govern a small Italian village after it has been liberated by the allied armies. The role was created by Fredric March on Broadway.

The NBC special marks the actor's return to television after the disastrous "John Forsythe Show" of a season ago. The experience appears to have caused no trauma for Forsythe, a remarkably well-adjusted actor.

"It was my own fault," he commented, "for letting myself be talked into it. I made the mistake of not demanding a strong producer to watch over the show; I thought perhaps I could keep an eye on things myself, but that's impossible when you're starring in a series."

Forsythe himself had a five-year hit in "Bachelor Father," which he admits "made me rich beyond my wildest dreams of avarice." For that reason he can afford to call his shots, such as "A Bell for Adano" and his recent film, "In Cold Blood."

and property in their own hands. If next year they turn against whites, the elections will be affected.

Politically important in 1968, if the riots occur again, will be what President Johnson and the Democrats and Republicans in Congress have done in the meantime to prevent them or control them.

Equally important, perhaps far more so, will be the condition of the Vietnam war before the elections. The present heavy decline in Johnson's popularity, as the polls show, can be linked to the war's stalemated condition.

If by electioneering time next fall there is still no progress in Vietnam, which will mean more thousands of Americans killed there by then, Republicans will use it as ammunition against Johnson, with increased public support for them. There is the opposite possibility. Master politician Johnson has certainly thought of all the angles.

An American victory in the war by balloting time, or even a halt to the fighting, would be the best thing that could happen to Johnson who then will get much of the thanks as now he gets much of the blame.

Another factor to consider before election time is the state of the economy. For instance: Unemployment went up in September and October, reaching its highest point in two years last month.

If that continues next year it will be a minor or major disaster for Johnson and his Democrats, depending on the size of the rise in unemployment. And bad inflation, if it comes, will be an election factor, too.

Yet, the answers to none of these problems, which may be the deciding points in the 1968 elections, are visible now.

Overcoming One Party Rule Tough

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — One of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's closest aides said Thursday that overcoming the one-party rule has been the governor's toughest problem, and indicated it would take Rockefeller two terms to secure a two-party system.

G. Thomas Eisele, a legal adviser to Rockefeller, said if former Gov. Orval Faubus were to be re-elected next year, he would not find "too much change" in state government from the way he left it, and that Faubus could easily revert the changes back to the old ways.

Eisele, appearing on the KARK-TV program "Challenge 67," explained that the governor has little control over the some 180 state boards, agencies and commissions.

The aide said Rockefeller had appointed only about 300 persons out of a total of some 16,000 to 20,000 state employees. He said about half of the appointees were Republicans.

The governor would like for the legislature and the people to relax and realize that the two-party system is here to stay, Eisele said. Once they accept the two-party system, they can turn their attention to building the state and make partisan politics secondary, he said.

Eisele indicated that the only way the state could secure a two-party system would be to re-elect Rockefeller.

A panel of Junior Chamber of Commerce members, who directed questions during the programs taping, asked Eisele to name the governor's accomplishments over the first 10 months of his two-year term.

Eisele said they would be amazed at the Rockefeller's accomplishments but shunned an answer.

"I think perhaps it's not exactly the time now to assess his accomplishments," he said. The aide said the new administration had been characterized by "fresh new spirit, a new approach and new attitudes toward government."

He said Rockefeller had brought "professional, competent law enforcement" to the state level for the first time and that the governor had changed the philosophy of the state insurance department in terms of protecting the public interest.

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

Tip Trips: Teens resent being resented by service people—waiters, waitresses, taxi drivers, etc. Say in own defense: "We aren't wage earners, we're students! We barely have enough money to go out and eat, much less tip 15 per cent on top of it." Also noted: many teen spots have 50c to $1 minimums anyway to insure that kids will not hang around drinking coffee and cokes. If the restaurant proprietors want teens to spend money on food, why should they be surprised if kids run out of "extra" money for tipping?

Service people forget that teens grow up eventually and become more able to tip sufficiently, but by then so many teens are sick of the cold shoulder in eateries that their lifelong attitudes toward tipping are pretty warped.

Teens find they aren't the only sub group treated poorly by service people. Ladies dining alone or in a group find good restaurant service hard to come by, too. Many teens are now demanding that tipping be abolished and restaurant prices merely raised 15 per cent, no fuss, no muss, no bother, secret fear—no service either!

Christmas Crush on Way: Now is by no means too early to find your Christmas vacation job. Likely lucrative spots: local post offices, large department stores which always take on extra wrap-pers, cashiers and salesgirls, large gift shops that specialize in fancy gift wraps. In job hunting remember the law of averages. If you make enough applications, one of them is bound to result in a job. Also never regard lightly the experience your first job or two affords: the more you can look back on the more you will have to look forward to.

Winners Become Psychological Losers: Great teen athletes suffer too many harmful pressures, says Dr. Garmichael of the American College of Surgeons. Blame goes right onto ego-satisfying parents, unaided coaches and friends.

Bleached Legs Lose: Tights in dark colors are here for awhile. Black tights with little black date dresses, brown and navy with brown and navy for daytime. The look is lots of leg and it looks better when the leg is darker. Most men will agree with this: since they chose darker evening shades for their ladies over all others in a recent survey.

Blond Boys Unpopular? A recent quickie radio telephone survey showed that few women and girls preferred blond men. Thought them "pretty boys" or too self-absorbed. Most like brown hair and darker shades. All admitted it didn't really matter much if it was the guy under the hair that counted.

Look for It: Bath products keyed to hair color personalities in time for Christmas. Different bath crystals, bubble bath and dusting powder for blondes, brunettes and redheads are offered.

Hippie Dipples Dying? Everyone is saying it and hippies are doing it. What? Dying. A few literally, unfortunately many figuratively. They leave the hippie movement when they find that love is more than a word—it's a skill that saves atrocities with disuse. It is not hippies lament, passive.

Separate Apartments for Teens: New York City is the only city in the nation with separate apartments for teens. The city is now considering a similar plan in other cities. Parents must be notified and a police officer must be close to a suitable supervisor and must be on enough duty both to have quiet and to have and use important activities.

Accident Rates: New statistics show that while numbers of traffic fatalities increase so do numbers of drivers and autos, and not in exact proportion. Indications are we might be actually safer on highways nowadays.

THE SWORD of the spirit is the word of God. Eph. 6:17. The cutting word is a two-edged sword; truth cutting through falsehood or the hurting word cutting into innocent hearts. Talking is a terrible responsibility. Words create or crush. Your words are your union card; they put you in the construction crew or the wrecking gang. Words are ambassadors of the mind...choose those that will make treaties of peace, not declarations of war. In America there are nearly 300,000 Churches where "His Word" is fed to hungry souls. The word of God is living and active and sharper than any two-edged sword. Jesus offered life to those who would hear His words and believe. You can be sure the best people are church-going people...do you go to church?

You In The Church...
The Church In You
Form a combination for good. We should attend church regularly. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the CHURCH. Be faithful. Be a Churchman!

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH STARTS WEDNESDAY SAENGER
Early Signs of Leukemia Often Found in Mouth
By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

Early telltale signs of diseases affecting the entire body system can often be found in and around the mouth. For instance, in acute leukemia almost half of those afflicted have some sort of gum trouble.

Leukemia is a disease of the blood, commonly called blood cancer. It has an insidious nature, especially in the chronic phase, because it usually runs an irregular course, patients getting better and worse at intervals, but almost always terminating fatally.

It has long been known that early signs of leukemia can often be found in and around the mouth. This was confirmed by a recent study in which 30 to 40 per cent of patients with acute leukemic disease consistently showed some degree of:

1. Swollen gums, sometimes getting so large they covered much of the teeth.
2. Hemorrhages inside the gums, giving them a black and blue or, sometimes, a magenta coloration.
3. Sores and ulcerations of the gums.
4. Bleeding with little or no provocation.
5. Swelling of lymph glands in the neck.

Other, less serious diseases may also seem to exhibit some or all of these signs, but when present they are suspect of leukemia and demand complete blood and physical exam.

Your dentist is trained to recognize these findings and help make a differential diagnosis. But everyone should be alert to any changes in and around the mouth.

Swollen glands in the neck can easily be seen by patients. Look in a mirror and stretch your neck upward. If your glands are enlarged, they will be prominent. Don't keep feeling and pressing them, consider them a warning to see your doctor.

Wonder drugs are increasing the life span of leukemia sufferers, and decreasing severity of the disease. Even cures have been claimed. Again the mouth plays an important role, since some of the promising new drugs needed in large enough doses to fight the disease, have limited use because they produce severe inflammation in mouth and throat.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

It has been estimated that 12 million persons are afflicted with leprosy.

Bea (Mrs. Howard) Schenck writes: "My sister, Mrs. Harold Goldberg of Gary, Ind., was in New York for a few days. I asked her what she would like to do and, strangely enough, her answer was, 'Play bridge.' It just happened that there was a duplicate game at the Cavenish Club and we played. Here is a top score that she got for making four hearts:

The defense started off with three diamond tricks. A spade was taken by declarer's ace, and it was up to her to make the rest of the tricks. She started by leading a heart to dummy's ace. West's play of the jack caused her to pause and reflect for some time. Eventually she decided that it was a bona fide singleton, so her next play was to lead the nine of hearts and let it ride. After that, it was a simple matter to take dummy's king of trumps, lead a club and finesse her jack, draw the last trump and eventually get rid of her losing spade, on dummy's fourth club."

The hand is interesting for a number of reasons. The first one is that the four-heart contract was rather ambitious but hard to stay out of. Actually, Mrs. Schenck had a minimum heart raise and Mrs. Goldberg a minimum jump to game.

Then the diamond lead was unusual but most effective in that it gave the defense the first three tricks. It also gave declarer a lot of information. The spade lead that came next showed that West had overcalled with very little. Surely he would have a singleton to justify his overcall, so

WR Going to Meet in Virginia

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller is scheduled to leave the state again today to attend a meeting of the board of Colonial Williamsburg in Virginia, after being out of the state most of the week.

Rockefeller returned briefly to the state Thursday and was to meet with the presidents and some board members of the University of Arkansas and Little Rock University who waited in his office Thursday for a meeting that never occurred.

After a lengthy wait in the governor's office where Rockefeller's staff members tried to find out when the governor would appear, Dr. David Mul-ins, president of the University of Arkansas, talked to him by telephone.

Aides said earlier the governor would be 45 minutes late for a news conference he scheduled at 3:30, but reporters had begun leaving around 5 p.m. when Mullins said he had spoken with Rockefeller by telephone.

Aides said the governor was tied up in a meeting at his Petit Jean Mountain home.

Rockefeller was scheduled to speak in Little Rock Thursday night but an aide said he would not attend because he had bronchitis.

Hope Loses to Nashville 27-13 Score

By RALPH ROUNTON Star Sportswriter

Just to add the finishing touch on a dismal Bobcat season, the Nashville Scrappers used two fourth-quarter touchdowns to whip the Hope Bobcats 27-13 in Hammond Stadium last night.

The final loss plunged the Bobcats to a 2-8-1 mark for 1967, and earlier the Cats had tabulated a 1-6-1 record in 4-AA. Nashville moved to 9-1 on the year, and the Scrappers have one game left to play. Still, the Bobcats were in it for a good while.

Nashville took the opening kickoff, and immediately proceeded 72 yards on 14 plays to draw first blood. The score came with 6:35 left in the first period on a one-yard dive by tailback Ronnie Halter. Bubba Wallis kicked the PAT, and the Scrappers led 7-0.

A short time later, though, defensive halfback Buzz Andrews was in the right place at the right time, picking off a James Turley pass and racing 47 yards to the end zone. The kick was good by Dwight Galloway, and the game was tied 7-7.

After dominating the field position for most of the period, the Scrappers took a short punt at the Hope 23 with 2:44 remaining in the half. Then, on a third and ten situation, Turley drifted to his left, turned around, and lofted a screen pass to split end Charles Carozza, who sailed in from there for the Scrappers' second score. Wallis booted the PAT, and the Bobcats trailed 14-7.

But now it was the Cats' turn, and Buzz Andrews took the next kickoff and sailed 88 yards up the middle to the Nashville 2-yard line. On second down Andrews added his second score of the evening from two yards out, but Galloway's kick was wide to the right, and at the half Nashville led 14-13.

Neither team could muster up much in the third stanza, but the Bobcats once drove into Nashville territory, where Galloway missed a 46-yard field-goal attempt. Later he was barely short on a 31-yard try. Nevertheless, while trailing only by one point, the breaks caught up with the Bobcats.

On the final play of the third quarter the Scrappers blocked a Hope punt, and Eddie Ray recovered for Nashville at the Hope 5. On third down Halter plunged over from the one, and after the kick was made good by Wallis Nashville led 21-13. Once again the Scrappers kicked off.

But low and behold, on first down cornerback Billy White intercepted an Andrews aerial and trotted 27 yards for the game's final score. This time Wallis kicked wide left, but the fate was made, 27-13 Nashville. And ironically, at that point it began to rain.

Final Games Could Be Starting Point

By HARRY KING Associated Press Writer

Arkansas' final three games of the season could possibly serve as a strong starting point for the 1968 season.

The Razorbacks, 1-2-1 in the Southwest Conference, could salvage a .500 finish in the conference by winning two of their last three.

And, two victories might convince the younger Razorbacks that they are capable of winning.

Arkansas closes out with Rice and Southern Methodist on the road and then plays Texas Tech at Little Rock. Both the Owls and the Mustangs are currently below Arkansas in the standings while the Red Raiders are 3-1 in the conference and have already played Texas and Texas A&M, the other two teams with one conference loss.

Rice looked like world-beaters after their first couple of games but has since lost two conference games.

The meeting Saturday at Houston could be a duel between Arkansas' Ronny South, who was brilliant last week, and Rice's Robert Halliey.

Maybe it's just a habit: Arkansas 17, Rice 14.

Arkansas State University has already suffered one loss in the Southland Conference race and must win at Jonesboro Saturday to remain alive in the conference.

The Indians play the University of Texas at Arlington, one of two teams undefeated in SLC play. ASU has had difficulty scoring the past few games but Arlington could be looking ahead to a meeting with undefeated Lamar Tech.

Pont Gets Home-Grown Talent

By IRA BERKOW NEA Sports Writer

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. —(NEA)—The Indiana Hoosiers' offense, sporadic, stumbling and spectacular, is led by three sophomores, quarterback Harry Gonso, tailback John Isenbarger and flanker Jade Butcher.

Each was a highly-sought high school star. In years past, Gonso probably would have gone to Michigan State, Isenbarger to Notre Dame and Butcher, well, to almost any other big-time midwestern football school. But Indiana, and coach John Pont, was their first choice.

Pont recruited for "winners." "I was looking for the kind of boy who was stable and talented and wanted a challenge," said Pont. "I laid it right on the line. I told them Indiana had never won, but that they could help us start something new at Indiana."

Previously, Indiana recruiting philosophy had been to scour the entire country for athletes, practically neglecting Indiana prep products. "Used to be," said one Hoosier fan, "that we'd get guys from Pennsylvania because that was a magic name in college football recruiting. It didn't seem to matter that they were third-stringers in high school."

Pont, who has a convincing, dynamic manner, concentrated on Illinois and Ohio, and began to look at state athletes, too. Isenbarger is from Muncie and Butcher from Bloomington. The latter is a home-grown rarity. Only two local boys in the last 20 years started for Indiana. Now there are two in one season. Butcher and junior end Bob Kirk.

This team is the fruit of Pont's first actual recruiting year. He came to Indiana in March, 1965, and had just a few weeks to work on recruiting before the April deadline for sending out tenders.

The "stable" boys Pont seeks can think as well as run and hit. "We had 92 boys out for spring practice," said Pont, "and all but one stayed in school. He fell in love."

Gonso, a prelaw student from Findlay, Ohio, calls most of the plays. He is imaginative and adventurous.

"The guys last year just didn't know what it was like to win," said Gonso. "Some seniors didn't believe what was happening. They're believers now."

Isenbarger exemplifies the creative, derring-do offense. Several times this season he took it upon himself to fake a punt and run.

Against Wisconsin, Isenbarger was back to kick in the end zone. "One of the players on the sidelines asked me if he was going to kick or run," said Pont. "I told him I had no idea. Every play is a surprise around here. That's the way I like it."

Hoosier fans seem to fancy it. To The Bloomington Herald-Telephone ran a contest to name the current team. Submissions included "Cardiac Kids," "Johnny's Come Lately," "Shock Troops" and "Minute Men."

Another was "Pont's Unbeaten Rough Daring Unique Eleven." The first letter of each word spells Purdue. It was summarily disqualified. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Ernie Koy's Stock Is 'Bullish'

By TOMMY THOMAS NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It is a weekday and Ernie Koy sits on a stool, leaning back against his locker at Yankee Stadium. He wears a golf shirt, casual slacks and cowboy boots and softly hums a tune to himself. Probably it is "What a Difference a Year Makes."

In two seasons with the New York Giants, Koy saw his career soar like a skyrocket, then suddenly fizzle and all but disappear over the hill. In this, his third year in the NFL, he's making a comeback at the age of 25.

After finishing a brilliant senior year at the University of Texas, Koy came to the Giants in the 11th round of the 1965 draft.

As a member of the "Baby Bulls," which also included Tucker Frederickson, Steve Thurlow and Chuck Mercein, Koy was a success, posting a 5-year rushing average his rookie year. He also did the punting.

But last season was a different ball game.

A teammate's knee gave Koy a perforated ear drum after his helmet had fallen off during scrimmage. Then his thigh started to give him trouble and so did the Army, which considered him a top draft choice.

By the end of the year, Koy had netted a meager 146 yards. The Giants had won one game. The barbers in Greenwich Village had a better season.

In February, Koy went into the Army to serve six months active duty. He marched and jogged and ran and marched some more without carrying a football.

He reported late to summer camp, feeling healthy and concentrating only on making a place for himself on the team.

Coach Alie Sherman switched him to fullback where he has remained throughout the season and the Giants are once again contenders in their division.

Koy leads the club in rushing and currently ranks fifth among all NFL runners. Against the Redskins, he ground out 160 yards (14 more than his total yardage all last year).

"My leg hasn't bothered me this year," says Ernie, "because I think all that walking and slow jogging helped it while I was in the Army. I felt real healthy when I reported to training camp."

He looked healthy, too. Koy is a handsome 230-pound specimen who once was fast enough to run 79 yards against Alabama in the Orange Bowl. His speed returned this season so that he successfully maneuvered around the flanks of the Green Bay Packers in a recent game, outrunning all pros Willie Davis and Dave Robinson.

Playing fullback should run in the family, because his dad, Ernie Koy Sr., was a famous fullback at the University of Texas before him (and later played major league baseball as an outfielder with the old Brooklyn Dodgers). Young brother Ted is a running back for the Longhorns now.

"I've been blocking more in this position," says Ernie, "but that's part of the game. When I see Tucker throw a good one for me, it makes me want to do my best when I have a blocking assignment."

Frederickson also made a comeback this season after missing all of '66 with a knee operation. The other "Baby Bulls"—Thurlow and Mercein—are gone.

Why have the Giants been able to improve so much over last season?

"Well, of course, quarterback Fran Tarkenton is the big reason," says Ernie, "but we've had several players who were injured last year come back and do a good job."

You can almost see him blush as he looks down at the points of his cowboy boots. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

"Down East" State

The state of Maine often is referred to as Down East and its people as Down Easterners because travelers from Massachusetts, mother state of Maine, had to go north and east to reach the region.

DAVID NAYLOR-LEYLAND

Better than 'Googlies'

The announcement of David Naylor-Leyland as a member of the Board of Directors of the Baltimore Colts is the ultimate verification of professional football as the sport of our time. Naylor-Leyland, as you might guess, is viddy British. He was retired as a captain in the Grenadier Guards, assigned personally to Her Majesty. Until four years ago, David had never seen a football game.

"I could tell you all about the 'googlies' and 'Chinamen' in cricket," said David, "but I did find the Red Dog a bit peewee-lear."

Naylor-Leyland (twist that one on your tongue after curfew) was a partner in Lloyd's of London and an international financier when he met Carroll Rosenbloom at a golfing club. Rosenbloom is the owner of the Colts, also a confidante of the Kennedys, which explains why Sen. Bobby (NY) is more often seen at Colt games and almost never at Giant contests. Naylor-Leyland, make that, Naylor-Leyland, had seen football for the first time on the "telly" and asked Rosenbloom for the autograph of Raymond Berry, the famed split end of the Colts.

"I can do better than that," answered Carroll. "I can take you down to meet him." ... and so the former captain of the Grenadier Guards was introduced to American football.

He saw a half-dozen games his first year, time the next and once flew from London to San Francisco so he wouldn't miss the Colts in action. This year, as Baltimore has gone undefeated, David hasn't missed a regular season game and only one of the exhibitions. This past week Dita has become a fan, too. She's a Phipps. But David hasn't been able to explain how a bad snap from center on a punt can result in a safety.

"I am," said David, Naylor-Leyland, "mad keen about football. I think I started second-guessing the quarterback halfway through the first game I saw. No, let's say the third quarter."

Rosenbloom, equally avid, broke up when he went with David to England last summer and heard David briefing his old English mates on football as he ran off a reel of Colt film action. "It's a very large field," ran Naylor-Leyland's narration. "The punter kicks the ball high in the air, and then they all cross the stripes."

Oh, yes, this business of being a director of the Colts football team won't keep David away from weekdays in Palm Beach. It's all very honorary. He doesn't have a farthing of the club.

After Francis Tarkenton, the quarterback of the Colts, played against his old teammates, the Vikings, he met defensive end Jim Marshall just after the game ended the game. On the last play, Marshall had charged in to block a desperation pass by Tarkenton. Marshall is also noted for having run the wrong way once in a 1964 game against the San Francisco 49ers. "I flew it," said Tarkenton at their reunion. "I made one mistake on that last play. I should have given you the ball."

Five second interviews with Alex Hawkins, the veteran receiver of the Colts who was picked up at 4:15 in the morning at a poker game. "From now on, you deal."

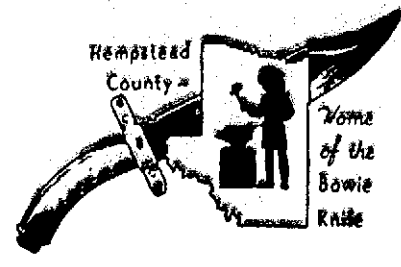

After the Colts rallied for a last-minute win over the Green Bay Packers, they awarded the game ball to coach Don Shula. "They couldn't decide," explained Shula, who brought it to the team. "The last time Shula got a game ball was back in 1960 when the Colts beat the Packers for the Western conference title (and lost in a sudden-death playoff)."

Between you and me, there's some hanky panky surrounding the rumored police pickup of a young pro football star who's been in trouble before. This club disclaims all knowledge of it.

MAY 12—Green Bay linebacker Ray Nitschke (66) anxiously awaits the snap from center so he can attempt to take one giant step and clubber New York quarterback Fran Tarkenton (10). The nearness of the Packers' all-pro defender is enough to keep the bravest of quarterbacks on their toes.

One Man's Burden

After finding that many young families are in serious financial difficulty, the Family Service Association of America set out to discover an average debtor. Although it was found that, like the "average man," the "average debtor" does not really exist — each case presents very different problems — the association did survey 65 selected families that had sought financial counseling and found this:

— The husband is 30 to 35 years old, has a wife and two or three children. He lives in a clean home and the children are well cared for. He works at a blue collar job, in a factory or shop.

— His median disposable income after taxes amounts to $400 a month.

— The size of the debts and carrying charges range widely, but the median runs at $3,600, not including mortgage payments. The family is paying off its debts at the rate of about $150 a month, or about 37 percent of his income.

Today the personal debt load of Americans totals $95 billion with about $75 billion being paid off on an installment basis. Each year installment debt takes a bigger bite out of disposable personal income. — Beaumont (Tex.) Enterprise

What Is A Billion?

The basic American currency is not, as generally believed, the dollar. It is the billion-dollar, at least in Washington, where it has been seriously proposed that minor discussions refer to "megabucks" for simplicity. (One megabuck would be $1 million.) This would be useful in reference to small outlays.

A billion is, technically, a thousand millions; a trillion is a thousand billions. Out grand-children may be concerned with quadrillions and their grand-children perhaps even with the vigintillion, which is a thousand novemdecillions, whatever that is.

But let's avoid future horror stories and stick with the commonplace billion. How big is it? You've seen those figures of how high a stack of a billion dollar bills would be. (Although we have happily forgotten, it would be a menace to get aircraft and possibly orbiting satellites.)

Another illustration of a billion was given in a little game played by Arde Bulova, the watchmaker, who is fond of asking guests to estimate the number of minutes which have elapsed since Christ was born. Most guess trillions, hundreds of trillions and even the higher numerations if they can recall them, such as septendecillions. Bulova enjoys the shock. Depending on the day and hour he asks the question, the answer comes to just over one billion minutes.

There, in time, is some concept of the word, which is largely incomprehensible to most Americans. This illustration scarcely helps, except to explain that the national budget and debt are pretty big, beyond the average taxpayer's grasp. Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser

Stamps Woman Reports Theft of $200

STAMPS, Ark. (AP) — An elderly woman told police here Thursday that two men who said they were house painters stole about $600 from her home.

Lafayette County Sheriff Wade Tatom said Mrs. Monroe Stevens told him two men came to her house and wanted to do some painting for $10.

Mrs. Stevens said she took $10 from her purse and left the purse in the house as she went outside with the men after they had finished.

She said one of the men went back into the house, saying he was looking for a rag.

Tatom said the man apparently saw the other money in the purse and when Mrs. Stevens went back into the house she said the money was gone.

Estimate of Rice Crop Is Revised

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has revised its estimate of the nation's rice harvest this year, predicting a harvest of 89,425,000 hundredweight, 1,190,000 hundredweight less than its October prediction.

In Arkansas, the department said the yield is expected to be 4,600 pounds to the acre compared to the October estimate of 4,700 pounds. The overall reduction in Arkansas is from 22,419,000 hundredweight to 21,942,000 hundredweight.

Last year's record production in Arkansas was 20,988,000 hundredweight, or a yield of 4,400 pounds an acre. Production in 1965 was 18,662,000 hundredweight on a yield of 4,300 pounds an acre. The 1960-64 average harvest was 16,037,000 hundredweight.

The nation's rice crop last year was 85,060,000 hundredweight. The department's estimate of the nation's soybean crop also was lowered. The November estimate is 985,184,000 bushels compared to the October estimate of 993,715,000 bushels.

The estimate for Arkansas of 32,598,000 bushels on a yield of 23 bushels an acre remained unchanged.

The state produced 83,880,000 bushels on a yield of 22.5 bushels an acre last year. The 1965 crop was 76,325,000 bushels from a yield of 21.5 bushels an acre and the 1960-64 average was 57,055,000 bushels on a yield of 19.8 bushels an acre.

No Progress in GP Strike Negotiations

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP) — No prospect was in sight Thursday for an immediate settlement of the strike at two Georgia-Pacific plywood plants here.

Some 750 workers remained idle as plant officials met with Crossover civil leaders and told the group that the company's main objection is to a "roving picket line" clause that the union wants in a new contract.

W. C. Norman, vice president and general manager of the Crossover operation, said that Georgia-Pacific has "run out of string and the next move will have to come from the union or the C.S. Conciliation Service."

The company reportedly has offered the union a one-year contract granting a wage increase and increased benefits, but it was rejected because of differences over the "roving picket" clause.

Says America Must Be Kept Strong

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Lt. Gov. Maurice Britt, addressing students at Little Rock Central High during an assembly in honor of Veteran's day, said Thursday the price of freedom and liberty is "external vigilance" and that the United States must continue its willingness to pay the price.

Veteran's Day is Saturday. "If we love America, if we consider it worthy of the sacrifices already made, we must strive by word and deed to keep it strong," Britt said. He said a growing "disregard for law and order" is equally challenging.

Britt won the Medal of Honor during World War II.

Firm Buys Big State Acreage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WALNUT RIDGE, Ark. (AP) — Circuit Clerk O'Neil Kellum of Walnut Ridge said Thursday that Menhardt Corp. of Louisiana has bought more than 75,176 acres in 23 Arkansas Counties for $2,225,000 from the San Broadhead estate of Lauderdale County, Mississippi.

High Court Asked to Oust Police Head

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell asked the Arkansas Supreme Court today to issue an order ousting Lynn A. Davis as director of the State Police, charging that Davis was a legal resident of Wyoming and not Arkansas.

Purcell made the request in a brief filed with the Supreme Court in his appeal of a Pulaski Circuit Court ruling that Davis is eligible to hold the job.

Purcell contends that Davis does not qualify under state law that requires a State Police director to have been a resident of Arkansas for "10 years next preceding" his appointment.

Davis, a native of Texarkana, Ark., served with the FBI for more than six years prior to his appointment Aug. 1 by Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

Purcell had advised the governor that he did not believe Davis was eligible. Rockefeller disregarded the opinion, appointed Davis and said he would let the courts decide the issue.

Purcell's 123-page brief and abstract of the Aug. 21 trial before Circuit Judge Warren E. Wood said Davis was a legal resident of Wyoming, not Arkansas.

Davis, while serving with the FBI in Wyoming, registered to vote in Sweetwater County, Wyo. Purcell pointed out that Wood said he would take judicial notice of Wyoming's voter registration law.

In registering, Davis signed an oath saying he had lived in Wyoming about 2½ years.

The attorney general also said that Wyoming law on qualified electors and registration of voters was governed by a rule that the address given on the voter registration affidavit "must be considered and held to be the residence of a person in which his habitation is fixed and to which, whenever he is absent, he has an intention of returning."

During his trial, Davis said numerous times that he had always intended to return to Arkansas and that his "heart was in Arkansas."

Purcell said Davis had given a "floating intention" to return to Arkansas and cited case law in which a court held that a floating intention was not sufficient to prevent a new residence from becoming a person's present domicile.

Purcell said he believed Davis' testimony about his floating intention, "if it can be believed, is not enough to sustain an Arkansas domicile for appellate when we look at the surrounding facts and circumstances... concerning appellee's move to and living in Texas."

Davis had lived in Texas for a brief period before joining the FBI.

Purcell cited a Supreme Court case in North Dakota in which a man elected governor was ousted by the court because he failed to meet a law which said the governor must have "resided five years next preceding" the election within the state.

Advices Both Parties Must Be Contacted

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell advised the governor's office today that it should contact Republican and Democratic party officials in Mississippi County before settling a date for a special election in the county.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller has indicated he would like to call an election early in February to fill the vacancy created by the recent death of state Rep. L.H. Autry.

Purcell, in an opinion to Marion Burton, the governor's executive secretary, said there are several ways of conducting such an election.

He advised the governor's office to contact the local parties to determine whether they are interested in holding primary elections or whether they would just want Rockefeller to set an election allowing all candidates run at the same time.

Purcell said the governor also must consider independent candidates who might desire to run. Purcell said that once a determination is made as to what procedure would be followed, the governor should determine how much time the law allows for filing by candidates.

Melton Plane Hunted in L.R. County

WINTHROP, Ark. (AP) — Col. Bob James, commander of the Arkansas Wing of the Civil Air Patrol, said Thursday the search for businessman-farmer Marvin Melton of Jonesboro was centered near Winthrop (Little River County).

James said the area around Winthrop was being combed by about 15 men and two planes. He said some of the searchers went into the heavily wooded hills on horseback Thursday after two women reported hearing a plane crash about a month ago.

James said the CAP received the lead this week, and he said State Police and the De Queen Wing of the CAP were conducting the search for the 65-year-old Melton, who disappeared Oct. 13 on a flight from Jonesboro to Dallas.

James said the search will broaden over the area south and southwest of Little Rock to Texarkana when the leaves have fallen off the trees.

Seeks to Have Conviction Reversed

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP) — A Negro man sentenced to death for the 1964 rape-slaying of an Ashley County woman sought Thursday to have the verdict reversed.

Attorneys for James Williams, 36, of Crossett, argued that Negroes could not get a fair trial in the county. They said that Negroes were not fairly placed on the jury panels due to race designations on voting records from which jury panels are drawn.

Circuit Judge G. B. Colvin withheld a decision until he could review records and newspaper files.

Williams was convicted Dec. 11, 1964 in the death of Mrs. Thomas Begges, 25, of near Hamburg, who was killed Sept. 25, 1964, and whose body was found the next day on a logging road.

The Arkansas Supreme Court upheld the conviction in 1965.

Mansfield Says No New Proposals

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield expects no dramatic, election-year legislative proposals from President Johnson in 1968, but predicts the President will press his fight for a tax hike if he doesn't get it in the current session.

The Montana senator said Friday the second session of the 90th Congress may be much like the first—which still is weeks from adjournment.

"I think on the Senate side it has been a responsible, stop, look and listen session," Mansfield told newsmen. He said the Senate has approved much of what President Johnson requested.

But he acknowledged that the House, which has pressed budget-cutting demands and balked at the size of the proposed anti-poverty program, may be more representative of the American mood now than the Senate.

"You may not like what they're doing," Mansfield said, "but it's quite possible that they reflect very accurately what the people are thinking."

Mansfield said the current session of Congress probably will adjourn at mid-December—probably without acting on the $7 billion tax increase President Johnson seeks on the basis it would combat inflation.

"I feel he'll ask for a tax increase next year if he doesn't get it this year," Mansfield said. "If we don't face up to it this year, we'll have to do it next year when it will be far worse. It will be more unpopular. It may well be a bigger tax increase."

The President is now seeking a 10 percent surcharge on income taxes.

Mansfield said the Senate has approved 88 of 100 Johnson proposals which have come before it.

But that accounting includes some relatively minor legislation. And there are some controversial items on the docket Mansfield outlined for the month ahead.

One of them, civil rights legislation, is likely to ignite a Southern filibuster. That bill, one section of the broader legislation the administration sought, would make it a federal crime to use force or intimidation to interfere with minorities exercising their civil rights.

Mansfield said he could not forecast the outlook for that bill.

Also awaiting action is a three-year extension of the federal aid to education program. Mansfield said Southern senators "have some questions" about that one, too.

Mansfield said the Senate will go to work next week on a bill raising Social Security benefits by an average 15 percent. He said the Senate also will deal with the education bill.

China Troops Told to Kill Those Fleeing

HONG KONG (AP) — Chinese Communist troops have been ordered to shoot to kill at all Chinese who try to flee to Hong Kong or nearby Portuguese Macao, arrivals from Red China said today.

The arrivals said although Kwangtung province adjoining Hong Kong was now under the control of troops loyal to Mao Tse-tung, a large number of anti-Maoists are in rural areas. They said these anti-Maoists are trying to flee the country.

Bunker Home to Talk With Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker Feltz is expected to talk with President Johnson and said allied forces are "making continual and steady progress" in the war.

Bunker declined further comment before his meetings next week with the President.

Product Manufactured in Hope Has Market All Over the World

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

Holland (Mich.) came to Hope 10 years ago with everything but the tulips, and this has been a happy merger for all concerned.

Hope Wire Products Co., a subsidiary of Holland Maid Spring Units, has been making spring units for innerspring mattresses, box springs, and upholstered furniture since it set up operations here, and last May 16 Hempstead County voters approved a bond to expand the local concern.

After some delay, the construction is now underway of a modern one-story building in Hope's Industrial Area west of town that will measure approximately 28,000 square feet. The steel building will be similar to the one housing the Standard Generator plant. At present, 47 employees work for Wire Products, but with the expansion of facilities more will probably be added to the payroll.

A new oven for stress relieving for the units is planned for the plant, and the entire operation will be a more automated assembly. Already the manufacturing has become more automated in the forming department. It is hoped that the move to the new location can be completed by March 1.

The armed forces receive 70 percent of the production from Hope Wire Products. One prime example is all the spring units at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs. A civilian purchase had an interesting angle. A new Holiday Inn was built about 300 feet from the Holland, Mich., plant, but the units for the beds were purchased from the Hope, Ark., plant! They'll go a long way to get the best.

State Slated to Begin Televising

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas State University is scheduled to begin television broadcasts today, originating from the school's television department.

Charles Rasberry, director of the Radio-TV Department, said the programming would begin at 7 p.m. and would run for about two hours. Although ASU-TV is closed circuit, it can be received on Channel 12 on all sets connected to Jonesboro Community Antenna Television.

Arkansas State began its television instruction program in September, and Rasberry said most of the crew responsible for tonight's performances are students enrolled in the department.

Tire Safety Standards Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government announced today its first two tire safety standards, aimed at providing better protection against blowouts at high speed.

One standard will require that after next Jan. 1 laboratory tests be conducted for tire strength, endurance and load ratings. After Aug. 1, 1968, manufacturers must provide treadwear indicators which will show when the tire has been worn to a thickness of one-sixteenth of an inch.

Manufacturers will also have to provide labeling information on size, maximum permissible pressure, maximum load rating and number of plies.

The other standard requires that cars made after next March 31 have a permanent placard on the glove compartment stating the manufacturers recommended tire size, inflation pressure for maximum load and designation seating capacity.

It also requires that when a tire loses pressure rapidly, such as in a blowout, the rim be capable of retaining the tire to a stop from 60 miles an hour.

The standards were the first for tires under the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act of 1966.

3 Sergeants Released By Viet Cong

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
Associated Press Writer
PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The Viet Cong "symbolically" turned over three captured U.S. sergeants to an American antiwar activist today, and a U.S. document said the men had been through Communist brainwashing programs.

They gave an apparently memorized statement of thanks to the Viet Cong and to Tom Hayden, who said he represented a peace committee led by Dr. Martin Luther King, folk singer Joan Baez and Dr. Benjamin Spock.

But Hayden said after the ceremonies that the prisoners were not in his custody. He said they were taken away in a car, but he would not say where.

Asked if the men were free, Hayden said: "I believe so." "They are in the process of going home," he said. He added he would see them later in the day.

The U.S. document concerning brainwashing was released by American officials in Saigon.

In it, Donald Rochlen, a psychological warfare adviser to the South Vietnamese government, told of an interview with a Red defector who said he personally took part in the indoctrination of two of the prisoners.

Release of the document followed the elaborately staged "release ceremony", at which the Viet Cong said they hoped the sergeants would "contribute usefully" to the antiwar movement.

At a news conference reminiscent of similar situations in the Korean war, two of three prisoners recited brief statements, apparently committed to memory, thanking Hayden and their captors. Then, blinking under television lights, they sat virtually motionless through 40 minutes of propaganda oratory.

The two were Sgt. Daniel Lee Pitzer of Spring Lake, N.C., and Sgt. James E. Jackson Jr. of Talcott, W. Va. The third American, Sgt. Edward R. Johnson of Seaside, Calif., was said by the Viet Cong to be in the next room, too sick with dysentery to appear. But no outsiders saw him.

The Viet Cong announced last Friday that the Americans would be returned to their families in a gesture of solidarity with antiwar protesters and Negroes fighting for equality in the United States.

The prisoners were brought to Phnom Penh today. Cambodia has previously served as intermediary in the transfer of U.S. prisoners from North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong.

Jackson spoke first at the news conference in a headquarters of the National Liberation Front. He wore shorts and an open-neck sports shirt and sported a trimmed moustache and tiny pencil goatee.

He gave his name, rank and serial number, then said: "I was captured on July 5, 1965, near Bing Hung in Caumau Province. On Oct. 31, 1967, I was released. I was told by the National Liberation Front that I was being released in solidarity with the peoples movement in the United States."

"While I was a prisoner, the conduct that I maintained helped the decision of the National Liberation Front."

"I want to thank them for the decision to release me and for allowing me to return home to my family and my country. I want to thank also Mr. Hayden and his committee for the work they have done to get us home."

Pitzer followed the same formula, reciting name, rank and serial number. He appeared lean but untanned and wore his hair in a crew cut.
